

Interactions should be intuitive! Try a Relationship Manager (RM)

Knowing who you interact with and why you're interacting, should be available at your fingertips! <https://youtu.be/iV7cphdiISA>

Finding content that has been exchanged with others should be intuitive!

Seeing what you have done or need to do should be understandable!

Unfortunately these things are need are not at your fingertips, intuitive and understandable. This is because we interact with others using many different programs, apps and channels. Users are overwhelmed by the many sources of email, chat, file sharing, task-management tools, calendaring, scheduling, CRM and MANY OTHERS..... Qikspace a company based in Seattle has devised an app that makes sense of all the interactions and presents an intuitive and understandable presentation of all your interactions. A user can easily see what is happening with whom.
